Clinicians:

Coaches Scott Moyer and Michael Diehl have over 40 years experience working with high school and college players as well as coaches from all over the world: Spain, France, Canada, Germany, Japan, South Korea, South Africa and Sweden.

They have captured (23) conference team championships, coached (18) individual conference champions and appeared in (8) NCAA National Championships as well as hold two NCAA coaching records.

Their students have competed on every level of competition including the U.S. Amateur, British Amateur, PGA Tour, Futures Tour, Porter Cup, U.S. Open and the NCAA National Championship. Several have won their state amateur championship (New Jersey, Maryland and Connecticut) while others were victorious in winning their state high school championship(s).

Several of their former players are current college coaches including Kevin Marsh, two- time NCAA "National Coach of the Year". Moyer and Diehl co-direct the National Golf Coaches Academy which conducts clinics and workshops for high school/college coaches nation-wide. They presently serve as Director of Golf/Men's Coach and Head Golf Professional/Women's Coach at McDaniel College, formerly known as Western Maryland College, in Westminster, Md.

They are also active serving on numerous committees with the Golf Coaches Association of America and the National Golf Coaches Association.
